

A strong woman

she stood firm and tall she was an achiever
she had reached the top her life had potential she knew the risks to take she was a woman of strength then she got married she experienced doing the basic necessities of life over and over again

she learned that she was weird that without a career she was nothing she stood with her head hung low she was on the mountain alone she knew the risk she needed to take the step to end this life
